Welcome to the future. Genetic engineering has been perfected.

Manmade dragons fly the skies. Devils are bred as weapons of war.

And a powerful stem-cell drug called Eternavix can keep you young forever. IF you are of the right political class. IF you are loyal to the Universal Imperium, the empire of empires that dominates the planet. But producing Eternavix requires DNA possessed only by certain women with rare genetic traits.

Mara is one such woman. A Eurasian with vivid blue eyes, young Mara comes to war-torn Chicago to start a new life, unaware that she is worth a fortune to those greedy enough to sell her to the Imperium. Only by an unlikely alliance with a bio-designed devil, a devil who has fallen in love with her, does she stand the slimmest of chances to escape a horrific fate in a secret desert prison known as the Nursery.
