For kids, staying up at night is fun. For many animals and plants, however, being awake at night is necessary to stay alive. This book is teeming with activities, experiments and information about animal and plant life after dark. Kids will discover why owls hunt at night, but hawks hunt during the day. They'll learn about night prowlers, night migration, night senses and nature's night lights on the bottom of the ocean floor. Simple experiments and activities - that can be done during the day or at night - reveal many fascinating facts about nature at night.
