A book with twelve short stories compiled from four writers. The four culprits and the twelve dreams don't aim for anything complicated, because life already is. As colorful and as dark as you want it to be. A perfect companion for caffeine- mornings, anxious noons, mind afternoons, and even introspective nights.

Why: Just because people are longing for that light mix of punch on their bookshelves. Just because you need to support your local dreamers. And just because, of course. Written by E.
