All of my friends and parents had noticed a change in my demeanor since Zach and I's relationship began.

I was happier now. My grades were way up, especially my Spanish grade, which had gone from a D to an A.

It was so noticeable that even my parents had taken note of my improved performance. "Kaila, that Spanish teacher of yours is really doing a good job with you during those after school tutoring sessions," my Dad said to me one night as my stepmom, my stepsister and I sat around the dinner table eating. "Yes, it's really been helpful," I said. "Mr. Neymar just knows how to explain things very thoroughly." My Dad would absolutely kill me if he really knew what those after school sessions were about. "Well, I want to thank him personally," my Dad continued. "I want to have him over here for dinner as a show of gratitude for what a good job he's done with you." "Dad! That's really not necessary. He's a busy guy, he doesn't want to waste his time coming over to one of his students' houses for a dinner." My parents were going to kill me if they found out the truth. That Zach was secretly an Alpha Tiger.

And I would do anything to have his baby.
