Justice "Jay" Thomas is the man around town. He has money, houses, cars and a bad bitch on his arm. Things between him and Piper aren't always kosher but they are set to get married until he meets Sasha. What starts with him helping a friend turns into a love affair he doesn't want to end. What happens when the heart speaks for itself? Piper has some secrets she's keeping from Justice that could tear them apart. Not only that, she's self centered and materialistic which are big turn-offs for Justice. Sasha hasn't always had it easy. Life dealt her a pretty harsh hand and Justice is there to pick up the pieces. She falls in love with him but is scared to give herself completely because the old saying "How you get 'em is the same way you'll lose 'em" plays in her head. She never wanted to be a side chick but her heart wants what it wants. Desmond is Justice's brother. He and Patrice have been rocking tough for the last fifteen years but he can't fully commit even though he loves Patrice. She's fed up and ready to date other people but will Desmond let her go that easily? Get ready to take a ride on this roller coaster of emotions with these couples as they fight against their hearts.
