In order to live, she must become his. Abigale is a forensic analyst who would much rather curl up with a good book than spend a night out on the town. But after her best friend drags her out clubbing, she stumbles upon a vampire in the midst of feeding. To keep his secret, Julian whisks her away to his island home, cloaked by magic. She must agree to become his source of blood or she will die. There are no other options. Torn between fear and desire, compelled to choose between love and loyalty, this is one puzzle Abby's brilliant mind can't crack.
