A true story that encapsulates the horrors of war and the innocence of young love. Buried in a trunk for fifty years, this long-forgotten tale, told through letters and journals from the war-torn Vietnam era, has been resurrected. College students, Dennis and Greer, met just before moving to different states. Their witty correspondence through letters conjured a desire to meet again. Finally together, Dennis, torn between love and duty, chose duty at the risk of losing Greer. As the two embarked on their journey into adulthood and navigated their relationship against the backdrop of war, they were writing a love story that will span the test of time.
