Former agent Charlotte Giles never expected to need her old job skills once she escaped to the wilds of West Virginia to build a horse farm.

But when Charlie falls in love with handsome Drew Bailey, she trades her own demons for his personal nightmares. For an ex-con who has run out of options, hiding out in Charlie's barn seems the safest way to avoid run-ins with local law enforcement. However, the handsome loner never counted on staying around long enough to fall in love.

Charlie's body proves to be more addictive than freedom, and her heart holds the key to his soul. Her love may be his only Redemption...
